FOREWORD

THE exhibits of monuments, mausoleums and vaults, presented in this book, are representative of the work of Robert Caterson. They include some of the more important memorials produced during fifty-four years of active accomplishment in this specialized field of artistic endeavor...The examples, here presented, are necessarily limited in scope. Yet, an attempt has been made to present types of design varied enough to provide some constructive help to those who contemplate the erection of memorials, no matter what the exact requirements may be.

It is suggested, however, that those who are interested avail themselves of Mr. Caterson's personal assistance from the very beginning. Complete understanding of mortuary architecture gained through more than a half-century of experience enables him to offer suggestions and advice of most tangible worth. Such preliminary service is available to you, at no obligation, no matter whether the design be elaborate or simple; the cost, great or small.

In all America, no more varied monument building experience can be found than that offered by Mr. Caterson. Examples of his work are on view from New England to Texas and in many foreign countries. They range from modest slabs to famous memorials including such notable works as the State Capitol at Austin.

It is from such a wealth of both experience and enduring accomplishment that Mr. Caterson is able to draw. It is experience that will assure you of the best work of this kind.
